LETTING THE UNION SLIDE.—In the House of Representatives, on the 24th inst., Mr. J. Brooks, a Southern democrat, who votes uniformly with Richardson, and stands side by side with the self-styled "national" Union men, who stigmatise the Republicans as disunionists—made the following remarks:

"The gentleman from Massachusetts has announced to the world that, in certain contingencies, he is willing to 'let the Union slide.' Now, sir, let his contingencies be reversed, and I am also willing to 'let the Union slide'—only, sir, to aid in making it slide. He assumes the position, that if the doctrines which we profess slavery men, and as I think constitutional men, of the country hold, shall obtain, then he is willing to let this Government go by the board. I hesitate not to say, that if his construction of the constitutional power of Congress over the Territories shall prevail in this country, I for one heartily indorse the sentiments of the Massachusetts leader."

Mr. Banks said, in his Portland speech, that "if the chief object of the people of this country be to maintain, perpetuate and propagate human slavery, this Union cannot stand."

Mr. Brooks says on the floor of Congress that if it be determined that Congress has power to exclude slavery from the national territories "he is willing to let the Union slide," and he said in making it slide.

If Mr. Banks and the Republicans be disunionists, what are Mr. Brooks, and the "National" democrats and Strait Whigs who vote with him?

On the same day that Mr. Brooks made the above declaration (the same being had by other Southern democrats)—Mr. Banks expressed his sentiments on the question of the Union as follows—in reply to catechetical questions from one of these same "national" Union men:

"I have never put in my plea (said Mr. Banks) expressed a feeling of indifference to the Union of the States. I am for the Union as it is, and now for its dissolution under any circumstances. I will meet its enemies in the field of the Union, to fight for the Union. I am for it as the guarantee of the rights of the States, of the mass people—to use the words of Washington—of the liberties of the American people. And I trust that its existence may be perpetual; that it may forever stand in the record of human history, crowned with an immortal fame. Continued applause."

Now who are Unionmen, and who are disunionists?

"REASON AND RIGHT" ON THE LIQUOR QUESTION. The Journal says the Governor Wells' suggestions on the subject of the Liquor traffic "are consistent with reason and right"—"avoiding free trade on one side and wrongful prohibition on the other"—and it believes that a law embodying these suggestions will "more fully and justly subserve" than former enactments.

Now the Governor's plan is to "grant licenses to as many sellers as will conveniently accommodate the purchasers."

If this does not amount practically to "free trade" it is somewhat difficult to imagine what would—for free trade could in no more than to "conveniently accommodate" all purchasers.

And this is the plan which the Journal endorses—a paper which once wished to be considered in favor of a "judicious" prohibitory law.

The result agrees with what we predicted before election—that these "pretended 'judicious'" Maine Law men would (if allowed to obtain the power) sweep away every vestige of prohibition, and let the liquor run free.

The new law will probably open the eyes of some prohibitionists who voted for Wells or Reed.

It is reported that another serious disagreement has arisen between the democratic and Straitout wings of the Coalition—the latter claiming two of the delegates from this State to the Cincinnati Convention—and the former refusing to allow them more than one. We think the democratic coalitionists have, notice on their sides—for the Straits, fairnaheds but about one-sixth of the capital of the concern in the recent campaign. If they are not satisfied with that proportion of the delegates to Cincinnati, we advise the humblers to give them more—and we think that will be the result.

The New York House of Delegates bids fair to rival the House of Representatives at Washington in the difficulties of its organization. They have been for some days at a dead-lock for a Speaker. On Friday the members had seven ballotings with about the same result, the Americans having 40 votes, the Republicans 35, the Hard Democrats 25, the Softs 10, two other factions 5 and 4 each, and 3 scattering, when the House adjourned to 6 1-2 P. M. on Monday. As the session has but one hundred days in which the members can receive pay, the putting off of an organization for an indefinite time may result in some inconvenience hereafter.

The Boston Post speaks of "McCrea the freedom ruffian who murdered Malcolm Clark in Texas." The accounts of that transaction stated that McCrea shot Clark solely in self-defence, and only when his own life was in imminent jeopardy from an attack upon him, on account of his free State sentiments. Pierce's organ now calls McCrea a "freedom ruffian." What next?

The Democrat speaks of Mr. Little, "anti-fusion Whig," as having been elected Speaker of the House at Augusta. We see that this Mr. Little had 87 votes,—the wing, (if the Democrat is correct in its classification of Mr. Little,) that the "anti-fusion" Whigs are in much greater strength in the House than has been generally supposed.

MACAULAY'S HISTORY OF ENGLAND. Partridge & Co. have received, from New York, the cheap edition of Macaulay's History of England, Vols. 3 and 4, so long and anxiously looked for by a host of admirers of that "essayist," as the London Times is pleased to call the best historian of England.

NEW BOOK.—Attention is called to the advertisement of Messrs. Bakes & Vincent, dealers in all kinds of fresh and salt meats, poultry, game, &c., at Stall No. 3, Norombega Market. The choicest quality of provisions and vegetables may be found at this stand.

One of the greatest mistakes which is made by those who deplore the evils existing in society and wish to have them reformed, is that they split off from individuals; to society as an organic whole, the responsibility of those evils. Individuals are the seed criminals, and society is only the aggregation of so many criminals.

An ingenious hatter of Paris has constructed a house of felt, made out of 24,000 old hats. This house contains parlors, dining and bedrooms, and a kitchen. It is erected upon a platform, upon the plains of St. Denis, and can be transported from place to place.

The Ninth Lecture of the Independent Course will be delivered this, Wednesday, evening, by Rev. W. H. Milburn. Speaking of this gentleman, the Boston correspondent of the N. Y. Daily Times, wrote as follows, on the 13th of December:

Mr. Milburn is enjoying a decided success in the delivery of his Lowell Lectures, on the Mississippi Valley. He is yet a young man; his life has been very remarkable; his biography would be a most valuable record of tremendous efforts, untiring exertion under frightful disadvantages, great attainments and great power, most varied and entertaining adventure. It is to be hoped that he will sometime write it. Meanwhile, he is lecturing with marked success, as and I do, although Thackeray's lectures are delivered upon the same evenings. Mr. Milburn's audience loss from the beginning been so large that numbers have been obliged to stand, and diminishes not a whit—an unusual thing, I understand, here; and, whereas the usual proportion of applicants for tickets to the Lowell audience to the actual recipients of them is three to one, for his course it was five to one. Perhaps I should not say so much about one man. But it is not often, now-a-days, that there is anything very noble to praise; and, for my part, I cannot well refrain from applauding courage, effort and success, displayed and secured in the midst of utmost helpless affliction, in the noblest of enterprises, and without hope of earthly reward.

The Boston Traveller contains the following notice of a new book by one of the Maine ministers:

"In the line of new books, we have one just ready from the press of Sheldon, Lamport & Blakeman, upon "Sin and Redemption." The author is the Rev. Dr. Sheldon, Pastor of the Elm street Baptist Church, of Bath, Maine, and former President of Waterville College. He spent several years after he graduated at Yale as a missionary in France. Dr. S. has long been suspected of holding views considered not exactly orthodox by his denomination. The present work will evince this so plainly that the suspicion will become a fact. He rejects in toto the doctrine of "total depravity," and contends that every person comes into the world without a sinful nature. He does not say that each person is created but if any differences exist it is solely the result of modifying hereditary circumstances, and in no case amounts to a sufficient depravity to make a sinful being. He denies that physical death is an effect of the fall, and holds that it is an inevitable result which must attend all animal organism. Holiness and sin are neither created by God, but are the effect of the voluntary agency of the creature in forming his own character."

Saith a distinguished city pastor to a young member of his flock:—

"Brother ——, we are always pleased to hear you speak in the prayer meetings, and we hope you will continue to do so; but I would advise you to be as brief as possible, and if the brethren think you are too brief they will tell you of it."

SMOOTHING ACCIDENT.—The Calais Advertiser states that the scorched remains of three lumbermen, named Williams, Grant and Hawkins, were discovered near the head waters of the Nashwaaksis, where they had been at work. It is supposed that the camp took fire while they were asleep, and that they were suffocated by the smoke.

LARGE OXEN.—We have to record this week another large yoke of oxen, owned by Mr. A. W. Parkman of Bloomfield, which are six years of age, girt 8 ft. 4 in. and stand 5 ft. 4 in. in their stockings. Their weight is 4,700 lbs., and they are completely matched, in every respect.

TOUGH STORY ABOUT A LION. The following account of an adventure with a lion in the wilds of Southern Africa, is extracted from a record of an African sporting expedition, recently published in an English magazine:

Whilst breakfast was preparing, I proceeded to take a saunter down to the pool, not without some faint hopes of a bath, though I feared our horses, to say nothing of the other animals who had visited it during the night, might have muddled it too much for that. However, I resolved to try and throw-ing my Minnie into the hollow of my arm, and cocking my wide awake over my eyes, lounged down a path among the bushes, now well beaten by the feet of men and horses. The latter I found up to their bellies in the pool, enjoying themselves as completely as the flies would let them; but the water looking uncommonly turbid, I thought I would skirt along a little to the left and look for a cleaner spot; and so, climbing a short steep, covered with long grass and underwood, I dashed aside some branches which intervened between me and a small clear space of shorter turf, and—to my very intense astonishment, though I must say not at that moment to my dismay, I was used to the sight of them—found myself within a few yards of one of the finest male lions I ever saw, and who was engaged with a look of grave patriarchal interest in watching the movement of the horses below—doubtless selecting one for his breakfast. Have you seen Lancaster's catching of the lion in the old Tower Menagerie? In exactly the same attitude did an unmoving, like a noble statue, stood this neighbor of mine; and, for a few moments, I remained really lost in admiration of the grand beauty of the tableau he presented.

It was, however, necessary to decide on some line of action immediately. I could not help hitting him, if I chose to fire, but if I did not kill him outright with one shot, he was so close to me that I could hardly hope to escape without an ugly brush. Surely this was a case in which discretion would be the better of valor; and as he was so absorbed in the contemplation of the horses below that he had not yet noticed me, I concluded (as Jonathan would say) to steal off as game. All that dry twig that would place itself in the way of my very first retrograde foot-step! The sharp crackle effected what the more subdued noise of previous movements had not done, and with a short startled growl, the beast swung himself round, and in a second was staring at me with a look which said, 'Hallo! who are you?' as plainly as look could speak. Instinctively I threw my rifle forward, cocking it at the same moment, and some seconds of perfect immovableness on each side ensued, during which I was trying to make out whether he would charge or not. The study of physiognomy is doubtless pleasant enough on the whole; but when your subject is a big male lion, and the question depending on the end whether you shall be summarily 'smashed' or let alone, why, I confess it becomes (as Mr. Weller says) too exciting to be pleasant.

How I studied every feature, trying to detect a change of some sort which gave me a clue! It came at last; he gradually lowered his head, and by the 'wiggling' motion of his hind quarters, which I could just spy over his shoulder, I saw he was gathering his hind legs under him—a sure indication. What odd things come into people's minds in moments of peril! That moment brought to my recollection most vividly a similarly parallel scene in my aunt's garden. He saw, where I watched her cat gathering herself up in an exactly similar way to pounce on a wretched sparrow.

The next moment he dashed at me with a hoarse snarl, which sounded through a giant had drawn the bow suddenly across a stupendous violincello. I fired as he rushed in, aiming as well as I could at the middle of his forehead. As I fired, he was swept down with the force of an express train, and for a few seconds lost all consciousness.

The first thing I was sensible of, as soon as I began to get my senses together, was the clear, strong voice of N——, calling to me in the most placid, thoroughbred Englishman-like manner:

"Lie perfectly still, Walter, that is your only chance."

How my heart leaped at the voice! Help was at hand, but the very words that announced it at the same time pointed out my extreme danger; it needed only the most moderate exercise of my returning faculties to understand why.

I was lying on my face among the long grass at the top of the little steep I have mentioned; I could see nothing, but I could feel the lion close to me. I could hear his deep, short, angry breath, like staccato puffs of an enormous cat—could detect a smacking noise, which I afterwards found arose from his licking at a stream of blood which flowed down the side of his nose from a deep sore on his forehead, given him by my ball—nay, I could feel his huge tail as he lashed it angrily across from side to side, treat for a moment on my back now and then.

The bitter anguish of those few years of moments—well, you can guess all that—Presently I heard the crack of a rifle on my left, a sharp whistle close to my head, and a third on my right as the shot fell among the fur, succeeded by another short, sharp snarl louder than the first—another crack, a sensation like a red hot wire across my neck, (being at the bottom of the slope, they could but just sight the lion over my head and N—— had fired a quarter of an inch too low), another furious snarl, and then a roar—within a yard of my tympanum, I never heard such a sound out of anything, living or dead; then three or more shots close together, and a bustle at my side which sounded like my neighbor settling down among the grass and bushes.

"Now roll! roll for your life!" shouted N——'s clear voice again. I was saved the trouble—the dying brute, in his convulsions, giving me a kick with his hind legs which sent me flying down the steep out of reach of further danger.

Holloway's Ointment and Pills a wonderful cure of Ulcers in the Leg. Frederick Hill, of Houston, Texas, was afflicted for eight years with seven ulcers in the leg, like the keys of a flute, which discharged continually, and rendered his life one of the greatest wretchedness and misery. Many remedies were tried in vain—he became worse, and at last had recourse to Holloway's Ointment and Pills, and by persevering with them regularly in accordance with the printed directions for nine weeks, he was radically cured, and is now able to walk better than ever he was in his life.

LATER FROM EUROPE.

ARRIVAL OF THE

CANADA,

AT HALIFAX.

HALIFAX, Jan. 8, 1856.

The Royal mail steamship Canada, arrived at this port at 12½ o'clock this morning. Left Liverpool at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, on Saturday 22d.

The Washington arrived off the Wesser on 21st, and put back to Southampton from thence, after landing the mails and passengers.

Negotiations.

The news is important. The present position of peace prospects is; it may be remembered that Austria made the suggestion of certain terms, not known to the public which the Austrian cabinet considered might constitute a basis for pacific negotiations. These suggestions Austria sent to Paris, through the French minister at Vienna. The French government sent a copy of said suggestions to London.

Much correspondence ensued between London and Paris, which resulted in the original suggestions being sent back, altered by France and England, to Vienna.

The Austrian Cabinet expressed mortification that her suggestions were not adopted.

More correspondence ensued, resulting in Austria agreeing to append her name jointly with England and France to the modified proposals.

The proposition thus amended was Sunday December 16th, sent from Vienna, Count Esterhazy being messenger, to St. Petersburg. Five or six days are allowed to reach St. Petersburg, and seven days more for the Czar's ultimatum—acceptance or refusal.

The contents of this ultimatum are kept profoundly secret. If the Czar refuses, France and England threaten to continue war, and Austria to cease diplomatic relations, and afterwards to be governed by the course of events, simultaneously with the transmission of peace proposals to Russia.

The Paris Moniteur publishes a treaty entered into between the Allies and Sweden, guaranteeing the existing limits of Sweden, against Russian aggression.

As Russia does not at present threaten Sweden, this ill-timed treaty may be viewed by Russia as an intentional insult, and cause the rejection of the peace proposals.

The terms of the treaty are very stringent.—It is declared that the treaty is concluded to prevent every complication of a nature to disturb the balance of power in Europe.

By Article 1st, the King of Sweden engages himself not to cede to Russia, nor to exchange with her nor allow her to occupy any portion of the territories belonging to the crown of Sweden and Norway. The King engages, moreover, not to cede to Russia any right of pasturage or fishing ground or of any other nature whatsoever of the said territories, or of the coast of Sweden and Norway, and to reject any pretension Russia might raise to establish the existence of any of the above-named rights.

Article 2d provides that in case Russia should make any proposition to the King of Sweden, or any demand with a view to obtain either the cession or exchange of any portion whatever of territory belonging to the crowns of Sweden and Norway, the right or permission to occupy certain points of said territory or cession of fishing or pasturage rights, or of any other character on those same territories, or on the coast of Sweden and Norway, the King engages to communicate immediately such proposition to the Emperor of the French and the Queen of England, and they engage to provide Sweden with sufficient naval and military forces to co-operate with the naval and military forces of Sweden to resist the claims of aggressions of Russia. The nature, the importance and the destination of the forces in question, shall the case occurring, be decided by a common agreement between the three powers.

A secret clause is appended to the treaty providing for Sweden eventually taking the field against Russia.

Vienna private correspondence intimates that the Austrian government declined an invitation made by Prussia September 17th, to join Prussia in a pacific intervention. Also, that Napoleon refused the invitation of Prussia conveyed by Baron Prokesch to Paris to open negotiations, but that about the middle of November Count Buol, in the name of Austria, invited the Western Powers to re-open at Paris the peace conference at Vienna, also recommending that the four guarantees should be maintained as the basis of negotiations, but that the third point of guarantee respecting Russian domination in the Black Sea should be modified. Russia has not replied to the proposal, but would send a representative to the conference. Hence has arisen the rumor that the Austrian Anglo-French proposal is merely to define the meaning of the third point, and that if an understanding be come to, the Vienna Conference, so called, will be re-opened in Paris, in the middle of January.

It is stated that the Swedish ambassador at Vienna, has formally announced to the Austrian government that Sweden adheres to the Allies' interpretation of the four points.

It is also said that Count Stackleberg had brought to Vienna a Russian proposal for peace, in terms different from those proposed by the Allies. This is doubted.

The English government is said to have demanded an explanation from the Court of Vienna, as to the intention of Austria in reducing the Austrian army. The army board is selling 75,000 horses.

Present position of affairs is thus expressed—France is less peaceful and England less warlike than they seem.

The London Daily News says that a majority of the French Cabinet think that Russia will accept the terms proposed. The majority of the English Ministry think not.

Principalities.

Rumor says that the Conferences for the settlement of the Principalities are indefinitely adjourned, and Count Carouini will resume the command of the Austrian army there.

Crimea.

A hurricane occurred in the Crimea.

The Tchernaya has overflowed, doing considerable damage.

There is nothing later since Codrington's despatch of the 4th, saying that the Russians continued to fire heavily from the North side, without much damage.

Snow lay on the ground.

Savings Banks are to be opened in the British army.

Asia.

Kars surrendered on the 28th.

On November 14th Gen. Mouravieff summoned the garrison to surrender. Gen. Williams held a council of war 15th. After the council the garrison sent a flag of truce, asking ten days suspension of hostilities and permission to send a Courier to Erzeroum. Mouravieff offered to grant honorable capitulation, and allowed English Captain Thomson to go to Erzeroum. Thomson returned from Erzeroum on the 19th, and reached Kars on the 22d. Williams demanded an interview with Mouravieff for the 24th; by this time the garrison had no food except some horse flesh for the sick in the hospitals.

No details of the surrender.

Private accounts, which are rather doubtful, say, without date, that Omar Pacha had driven in the Russians, and taken Khoni, five leagues from Kutais, and was preparing to attack the latter city, which was garrisoned by ten thousand Russians.

Mouravieff had detached a part of his force to oppose Omar Pacha.

The Turks found 12,000 fur coats in Khoni.

Britain.

Attention is entirely occupied in discussing the probabilities of peace. It is remarkable that General Public opinion more in favor of carrying on the war than at any previous period.

The Queen has sent a jewelled Decoration to Miss Nightengale.

Samuel Rogers the poet is dead. Col. Sibthorp is also dead.

Heavy gales prevailed during the week, and numerous casualties are reported on the British coast. No American ships are known to be damaged.

Spanish brig Bravo, Barcelona, for Havana, was wrecked on the night of the 10th, east of Gibraltar; forty-five passengers were drowned, including seven ladies.

France.

The treaty of amity and commerce between France and Persia is concluded, and an Envoy has left Paris to exchange ratifications.

Canrobert will be named Marshal of France.

Spain.

Cubans have sent a protest against the impolicy of laying additional taxes on Colonial produce, as the new tariff proposes.

Denmark.

Denmark has requested the governments interested to adjourn the Conference on the Sound dues.

A Copenhagen letter says that only two States have as yet pronounced in favor of Denmark's views, namely: Russia and Mecklenburg. Russian American minister some time since stated Russia could not spare the large sum required to capitulate, and therefore preferred remaining as they are.

Commercial Intelligence.

Liverpool, Brown, Shipley & Co. quote a languid market, and prices rather easier than at the departure of the Pacific, but not quotably lower. The Brokers' circular says that the market was quiet with but a limited speculative demand, and stocks freely offering. The weeks' sales amounted to 36,000 bales, of which exporters took 23,000, and speculators a small quantity.

Breadstuffs. Brown, Shipley & Co report flour dull at the following quotations: Western Canal 42s; Ohio 44s; Canadian 42s; white wheat 11s 9d a 12s. 2d; red 10s 9d a 11s 2d.

Corn had declined 6d, and was dull on account of large arrivals in Ireland from the Black Sea,—White 50s; yellow 44s 6d; mixed 44s.

Provisions. Richardson, Spence & Co. report pork quiet at former rates; prime western 85s—Beef in improved demand; prime mess 120s—Lard more active—65s. Bacon is in better demand at 58s for western.

Latest.

The Times City article says that a temporary diminution of confidence in the result of the mission of Count Esterhazy to St. Petersburg caused consols to open at a re-action of one-fourth per cent from the improved prices of yesterday. The amount of business was small, but the demand, for money was generally active.

The present return of the Stock Bank of England contains the result of the increased amount of circulation recently granted by order in Council. In pursuance of the terms of the bank act the amount of securities in the issue department is now $14,475,000, and the increase of 175,000 has been taken from the government securities held in the bank enlargement, which would otherwise have been precisely the same as in the previous return of section 4th, by the same amount, has been handed to the reserve of notes; which, without this change would have presented in the above returns an increase of £322,340.

The letters from Paris 11th-day state that the exchange on London continues flat, but that the pressure for money has slightly subsided.

There is no news of importance.

Sardinia.

The war budget of the kingdom of Sardinia is just presented to the Piedmontese Chambers: It fixes the expenses of the Eastern war during 1855 and 1856 at 74,239,432 francs, including 11,376,404 francs for the navy.

Surrender of Kars.

HALIFAX, Friday. The Invalide Russe confirms a dispatch from Kars from Gen. Mouravieff. He reports that he has taken possession of 130 cannon, large stores of ammunition, 7 standards, and prisoners, besides those already reported, six thousand Turkish regulars and four thousand Redifs. The Gazette of Friday contains a copy of the treaty between England, France and Sweden.

Dancing,—Dancing!

NEW HALL,

Lewis' Block—Main Street.

THE subscriber respectfully presents to his friends and the dancing public generally the following plan upon which his academy for the future will be conducted.

For the Juvenile Classes the tuition will be $6,00. To those who subscribe for the whole three terms in succession, that is for the first, second and fourth terms will be reduced to $5,00. The third and fourth term can be taken by the pupil's own convenience; if completed within six months from the commencement of the second term after which each pupil will be required to pay the regular rate for one year.

Former pupils can avail themselves of the above conditions by applying as soon as convenient.

Classes of Adults, or of Juveniles, can be formed to suit the convenience of pupils, and those who may wish it to be particularly instructed in the Waltz, will, as heretofore, continue to impart to them a thorough instruction in the latest and most fashionable style of dancing. It is left to the good taste of the public to decide whether my style of dancing is not superior to any other method, made and taught by those who are willing or unwilling to do better;

TO THE DAILY WHIG AND COURIER.

From Augusta.

[Special Despatch to the Daily Whig and Courier.]

AUGUSTA, January 8.

The coalition made the following nominations this afternoon:

Caleb R. Ayer of Cornish, Secretary of State; James Walker of Lovell, Land Agent; Democrats.

Isaac Reed of Waldoborough, Treasurer of State; Geo. Evans of Portland, Attorney General; G. M. Atwood of Gardiner, Adjutant General, Straight Whigs.

The nomination of Reed is supposed by some to be a ruse to secure the Land Agency to Mr. Walker, which having been done Reed will decline, and A. M. Roberts will be elected. A.

Dr. Hedge did not arrive last evening in season to deliver his lecture in the Mercantile course, as was announced, on account of the cars being nearly two hours behind their time. The lecture will be delivered to-morrow (Thursday) evening.

FIRE. The office of the Morning News, at St. John, N. B., was badly damaged by fire on the night of the 4th. The power press and engine were saved.

DEMOCRATIC CAUCUS. Washington, Jan. 7. Between forty and fifty Democrats met in caucus to-night, Mr. Jones of Tennessee in the chair. An interchange of views took place.—Mr. Richardson is willing to be dropped, provided another could be nominated with a better prospect of success. It was contended, however, that his withdrawal would be an abandonment of the platform. Some of the Democrats think that the caucus was unnecessary. It is probable that nothing definite will be accomplished.

NEW YORK, Jan. 7. Stephen W. Taylor, LL. D., President of the Madison University, died at Hamilton this morning, aged 65 years.

The cars did not arrive last night until nine o'clock. The delay was caused by a detention between Portland and Boston.

ARNOLD'S COMBINED
FOOT-STOVE, LANTERN, AND NURSE-LAMP.
ALBERT NOYES having purchased the exclusive right for manufacturing and vending in Penobscot county, the above valuable invention, is now prepared to offer them to the public.
As a FOOT STOVE, it answers an excellent purpose, as it can be sufficiently heated in less than one minute to warm and dry the feet in the coldest winter weather, and will be found to be an indispensable article in traveling. It is heated by an oil, alcohol, or fluid lamp, the flame of which is protected from every external object.
As a LANTERN, it throws all the usual purposes, and is less likely to be overset, or get broken, and can be used as a house lamp with equal advantage.
As a NURSE LAMP, and in cases of sickness, it is of great advantage in keeping drinks or medicines warm, besides giving the light desired, and for cooking in small quantities. For making tea, &c., it will be found very convenient, as a quart of water can be boiled in fifteen minutes, and a flat-iron heat to the same length of time.
In fact, the various purposes to which this neat apparatus can be put may be readily conjectured by every one. No further description is required, as no one can misunderstand its several utility. To say any thing more respecting its adaptability to a hundred purposes would just be telling what our readers can all see at once for themselves.
For sale, wholesale and retail, at
No's 15, 17 and 19 Central Street, Bangor.

WISNER'S
Patent Washing Machine
THE subscriber has purchased the right to manufacture and sell the above named unrivalled Washing Machine in the City of Bangor. For simplicity and efficiency no other Machine ever invented has approached to it. More work can be accomplished with it in a given time, and with less expenditure of strength and less injury to the clothes, than with any other.
Every one who has given it a fair trial has expressed the utmost satisfaction, and any number of testimonials of its merit can be procured. The following will be found amply sufficient.
CERTIFICATE.
We the undersigned, have had Wisner's Patent Washing Machine in use in our families for some time past, and after the adequate trial which it has received, it is our decision that it is the best and most simple machine that has ever come under our notice. It is worked with remarkable ease. A child of ten years of age may work it. It saves much of the time and labor usually required in the washing process. It is certainly an excellent machine, and we recommend it to all.
